Making a Difference Since 1909

From a one-room office to a worldwide school, Griggs International Academy has changed more than just its name over the years. Take a look at where we started and how we became one of the leading schools in Distance Education.

2006:

HSI officially becomes two separate schools—Griggs University & Griggs International Academy. Online courses are developed, providing a new learning environment for students. More than 235,000 students have enrolled with Griggs, with the number continuing to grow.

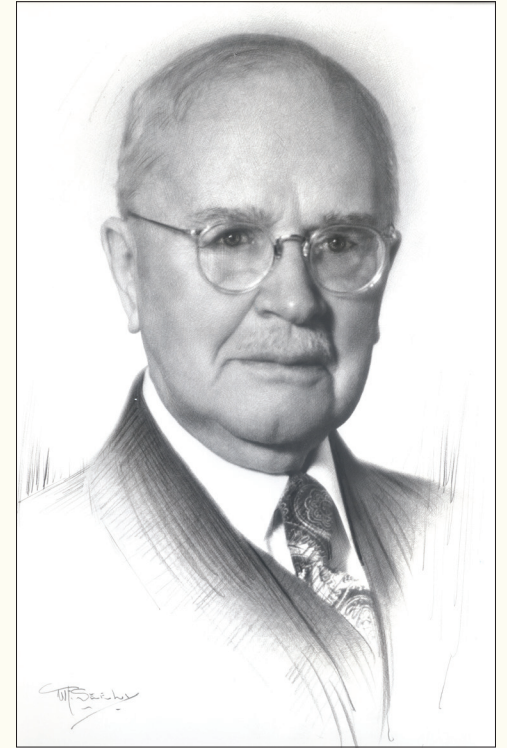

A committee is established to study the feasibility of Andrews University owning and operating Griggs University/Griggs International Academy. The Andrews University board votes to accept ownership of both schools.

2010:

1909:

Fredrick Griggs, an educator with a vision to provide a value-based education to people around the world, establishes The Fireside Correspondence School. Within two years it is offering 11 secondary and nine college courses.

1916:

By this time, The Fireside Correspondence School is renamed Home Study Institute and has students representing almost every state and province in North America, plus 10 other countries!

1990:

Reaching new heights in servicing students internationally, Home Study Institute becomes Home Study International. The HSI Board of Directors assigns names to the academic divisions—Home Study Elementary School, Home Study High School and Griggs University.

1991:

Griggs University begins offering college degrees to international students who have no access to an Adventist campus.

2009:

Griggs celebrates its 100th birthday! The mission continues as administration, faculty and staff remain committed to the vision of Frederick Griggs. We share with parents a sacred responsibility to help students develop skills, knowledge and judgment necessary to build a community better than the one they inherited.
